Story

--- "Ocean's 11"

After serving time behind bars, master fraudster Danny Ocean is out on parole, only to receive divorce papers one day from his wife, Tess's lawyer. Tess has been chosen to star in the show at a hotel just built by Las Vegas casino magnate Terry Benedict, and she wants to split from Danny and his criminal record before her debut. To top it all off, rumor has it she's Benedict's new girlfriend. But Danny's love for Tess still burns strong, and even though he's been hit with a tough double-whammy, he's come up with a daring plan. Danny may have just gotten out of prison, but he's heading for Las Vegas, the city where destinies change.

Benedict is a downright villain and also the man running things in this town by cold-hearted, nasty means, but he's hidden that side from Tess. Danny meets up with his old buddy, Rusty Ryan, at a Las Vegas club to share a plan that will really burst Benedict's bubble: robbing the vault at Paradiso, Benedict's hotel. That vault holds the proceeds for all of Benedict's casinos, which amount to $150 million—a night! The security is no joke and it took a team of specialists from different areas of expertise to put it all together. Danny and Rusty get straight to work recruiting their own team to bust that security.

A cast of professionals sign up to join in on Danny's plan. Reuben Tishkoff lost his casino to Benedict. Basher Tarr used to be a top-rate magician, but his magic show that was scheduled for a respected hotel got cancelled thanks to one of Benedict's hotels. Yen is a genius with the yo-yo and the most skilled member of his performance troupe. Frank Catton is a card dealer who was driven out of Vegas when his scams came to light. Livingston Dell is a hacker who's second to none. The Malloy brothers, Virgil and Turk, create virtual worlds with their video editing prowess. Saul Bloom is a former con artist. And then there's Linus Caldwell, the son of legendary pickpockets who feels pressured by his father's reputation and agrees to help Danny for the opportunity to step out of his shadow. Each member brings their own extraordinary skills to form Ocean's 11.

Can Danny outfox Benedict, the big man in Vegas who'll stop at nothing to get what he wants, while also winning back the heart of Tess, whom he still loves as his wife? At last, an intrepid undertaking like no one's ever pulled off before—robbing the winnings of Las Vegas' largest casino—is a go!
